

TARGETING MITOCHONDRIAL COMPONENTS AS AN ANTICANCER STRATEGY

Renaud Vatrinet – ESR1
University of Bologna, Bologna, Italy

How a tumor cell in which they are present functioning and non-functioning mitochondria decides to accumulate especially those functioning, thus conferring growth and proliferation advantage?
Understanding this "decision" will allow us to develop adjuvant drugs to fight cancer

